Subject Access Request Procedure

A Subject Access Request (SAR) is a request received from a person asking to provide them with copies of the information held about them. Individuals have the right to access information held about them under Data Protection legislation (this includes the General Data Protection Regulation and the Data Protection Act 2018).

Who can make a SAR?

The data subject can make a request for all or part of their personal information. Another person/party for example a solicitor, insurance companies and those with power of attorney can make a request on behalf of the data subject providing they have the data subject's consent.

What is a Valid SAR and who can make one?

A valid SAR can be either verbally or in writing. Where a request is made verbally this should be followed up in writing to confirm the accuracy of the request. The Act (legislation) that the individual is using does not have to be stated, and a clear request for the information should be made. A correspondence address is needed and a contact number is useful but not essential. Information is needed about the data subject to locate the requested information, for example full name, address and date of birth. Ideally at this stage the requester will include sufficient proof of identity such as copy of passport, recent utility bill, bank statement, HMRC letter with current address within the last three months, Council Tax Bill or driving licence for example (full list of acceptable documents as an appendix to this procedure). However, if there is insufficient proof of identity the person will need to be contacted using the original method, email or letter using the template at Appendix 1.

There may be occasions when the requestor is known to the CCG such as a current employee. Under the circumstances it would not be reasonable to ask for further documents to verify the person's identity.

Children

Children have the same rights as adults over their personal data. These include the rights to access their personal data; request rectification; object to processing and have their personal data erased.

An individual's right to erasure is particularly relevant if they gave their consent to processing when they were a child. In the UK only children aged 13 or over are able provide their own consent.

Fees

There is no provision to charge for responding to a SAR, however, the CCG can charge a "reasonable" fee when the request is manifestly unfounded or excessive, particularly if it is repetitive. A reasonable fee can be charged to comply with requests for further copies of the same information. If the responding manger considers that a fee should be charged then speak to a member of the Information Governance Team, Data Protection Officer or SIRO before doing so.

Timescales

Subject access requests should be dealt with without undue delay and at the latest within one month of receipt.

The time limit commences from the day after the request was received (whether the day after is a working day or not) until the corresponding calendar date in the next month.

If this is not possible because the following month is shorter (and there is no corresponding calendar date), the date for response is the last day of the following month.

If the corresponding date falls on a weekend or a public holiday the CCGs have until the next working day to respond. This means that the exact number of days the CCGs have to comply with a request varies, depending on the month in which the request was made.

Procedure

- 1) Upon receipt of a SAR, the date must be recorded clearly on it.
- 2) All SARs requests must be processed through the CCG's Corporate Delivery Team DDCCG.SARS@nhs.net
- 3) The Corporate Delivery Team will send an acknowledgement to the requestor that the SAR has been received and inform them of the timescale and who is dealing with the request. (Appendix 2)

If the Subject Access Request is unclear and more information is required to be able to work on the request a Data Protection Subject Access Request Form should be sent to the requestor by the Corporate Delivery team for them to complete to ensure that the processing manager has all the details required for them to process the relevant information. The form also ensures that consent is received. (Appendix 1)

- 4) Similarly, if the requester has failed to supply copies of the correct identity documents shown at Appendix 4 they should be sent the list of acceptable documents and asked to supply copies of the relevant combination. The timescale for responding i.e. one calendar month does not commence until all the relevant details have been supplied.
- 5) When the form is received back to the Corporate Delivery team, check to see if the requestor has completed all areas and ensure that the form has been signed.
- 6) The Corporate Delivery team will send to the relevant department/team which will copy / collate the information and check for any exemptions set out in the Data Protection Legislation such as:
 - Third Party Information
 - Information that could cause serious damage or harm to the mental / physical health of the person or any other person

- 7) Send the information. A corresponding letter needs to be sent out with the information. The letter should include if any redactions were made and an explanation of whether any exemption that may have been applied. Also include contact details should the requestor wish to respond with any questions about the disclosure. Try not to use any abbreviations within the letter, if this is necessary then ensure that you include a list / glossary of their meanings. Provide a copy of the letter to the IG team for them to maintain a record and close down the SAR. (Appendix 3)

Ensure that you record each part of the process and keep an auditable trail of dates, times and correspondence.

If a SAR Letter is received but the forms that were sent out are not returned within 3 months, file the original letter and the acknowledgement. If the requestor sends another request then treat this as a new request and send a new acknowledgement.

In England and Wales the age at which the child reaches sufficient maturity to exercise their own right to access their information is normally 12 but this may vary according to factors particular to that child. Once the child reaches sufficient maturity the parent may only act with the child's consent.

When deciding whether information about a child can be released consideration is also given to the best interests of the child in releasing information to the requester.
